

Friends and the Meeting for Worship

Our form of worship is very simple. There is no set order of service, no formal prayers or hymnbook and no appointed minister.

We begin our Meeting by waiting quietly in the presence of God, taking Jesus Christ at his word when he said, “where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.”

As we wait in the stillness we are drawn near to each other in spirit, and become one family of friends.

To some the silence may seem strange but it is in this silence we are joined with one another in seeking God. Anyone may be drawn to speak, pray, or read from the Bible.

We have found this way of worship the one that helps us best to draw near to God. It gives us help and inspiration for the coming week for we know we are not alone – the spirit of Christ is always with us.

We put our faith in this fact and speak of the Inward Light of Christ. In this light we try to live as Christ’s followers, putting his teaching into practice in everyday life.

Evangelical Quakers, 2020